VENUE NAMES

Last year we asked our lovely Doris community to give us words in different cultures that describe a gathering place.

The Longhouse - A long singular room used all over the world for ceremonies, gathering and community events.

Barracão - A North Brazilian hut used for candomblé ceremonies.

Sanganai House - Meaning let's get together in Shona is where the community meets to discuss, sing, worship their ancestors eat, drink and dance till dawn.

Maloka - Community meeting space in Colombia used by indigenous tribes.

Venue Highlight: The Vela Tent

This year we proudly introduce the all new Vela Tent to Doris. Vela in the South African languages Xhosa and Zulu, means 'To appear'. We warmly encourage you to appear. This space aims to provide a haven for individual expression, casual collaboration and creative exploration. It will be both a space to host spontaneous meetings among individuals and structured/workshop offerings (word games, musical jams, collective story-telling, topical conversation etc.) too.

We are drawn to encouraging hidden artists to emerge from their shells and give their own work a go. It's public space for artists to collaborate, without the pressures. This emerging may come from experienced professionals exploring new areas of their craft, or those less experienced who are waking up sleeping curiosities.

The Vela Tent seeks to explore and celebrate creative cultures in a field of fusion – bringing together artists from different creative backgrounds to collaborate. Outside the tent will be a public notice board. This board will serve for people to Seek or Offer others. Some of you may post "Musician looking for poet" or "Singer looking to jam" – The "Keepers" of The Vela Tent will do their duty of welcoming, connecting and keeping an eye out on possible magic to be found.

We believe everyone in the field has gifts to give. Doris is full of really precious spontaneous moments. The Vela Tent looks to encourage what everyone has to offer to the event as an individual - "Doris is built on love" and we believe that encouraging individual creative connection in a space that hosts equal sharing will magnify that love and togetherness. The Vela Tent is open between 10:00 - 20:00. Please check blackboard outside for details and guidelines on using the space.

Venue Highlight: Drumming Yurt

TREEDRUM are offering a space in their yurt (or outside weather permitting) to practice anything you are learning over the weekend or just a place to come and jam. Craig Winterburn has a full set of dun duns and has 10 years experience tutoring and playing West African rhythms. Come and join in the fun! Thurs, Fri Sat 14:00 - 18:00

Venue Highlight: Natural England

Please also come and see the joint Stanford Estate and Natural England stand on the Friday 12th and Saturday 13th August at the Summer School. Natural England will host a number of tree care and awareness workshops for both adults and children during the event.

Venue Highlight: The Sugar Loaf Rum

Let the tantalising flavours from far off Caribbean Islands warm your cockles, soothe your nerves, ease your joints and make you smile. At this years Rum Shack we will be serving fine and varied Rums from the Islands of Cuba, Barbados, St. Lucia and the very latest new Rums from Jamaica. Our mixes will be usual juices plus our popular specialities 'mango and chilli' and 'mojito' style with fresh mint and lime. In addition, this year's 'Wellness Warrior' will be serving powerful herb, root and bark infusions to ease sore throats, aid blood cleansing, assist with Women's pains and improve virility (ehem!) amongst other tings. He is also serving up a hot roots tea of a night time. Wine, Beer and Cider are also on offer.

This year's shack will be full of Reggae, Soca and African vibes as usual and our outside fire will be there to drum around, (some nyhabingi playing and chanting will be programmed in). As the Shack is larger this year, we will also be hosting various talks on African and Caribbean Dance, Drums and rhythm, Herbs, Wellness and other associated juicy topics as well as the odd workshop programmed in, in the daytime. Open from 18:00
